Physique, posture and dress:

Very shapely, sexy, curves.

Overly confident. The world revolves around her. Self-absorbed.

Stylish—it's about the impression.

Occupation and interests:

Assistant to a director. She aspires to be a celebrity actress. She is in full control of her own world. She's beautiful and calls the shots.

Where do they live and with whom, including pets?

Apartment in Sherman Oaks. She shares apartment with Jesse, but she pays 80% of rent and lease is fully in her name.

How is their abode maintained and decorated?

Spotless. Contemporary—black leather sofa, black furniture.

With whom do they spend their time?

Anyone who can either help her career or who can help her impress people who can help her career.

She has grown past Jesse and doesn't care if he knows it.

Role in the family as a child—today?

No communication with her mother. She came from a single-parent family. Family isn't important to her anyway—she is self-focused. An only child.

A memorable event from childhood:

"My mom dated this strange guy for, like, 5 months when I was a kid. He'd always buy me these toys and sh that I didn't even care about whenever he'd pick my mom up for a date. I knew he was just trying to buy me off—I was only 9 and I could see through it."

A more recent memorable event:

She walked past an A-list actor at a studio lot one time. They were both there for film shoots on different sets. She is pretty sure when he said "hi" to her, he wanted to sleep with her. She figures she has that effect on all men.

Primary addictions:

Herself. She smokes. She also likes her marijuana from time to time.

Recurrent fantasy:

She wants to be famous, and she'll do anything to get there. Her body is a tool.

What do they love and hate:

She loves fame, famous people, and being around them. She loves flashy, limelight culture and living in a city that never sleeps. She loves to shop.

She hates weakness. She hates being told "no."
